

These are just taster images to offer an overview of the route. Further improved images will be obtained when the trees are in leaf.

The entrance gate fitted with an extended auto gate latch that is not actually needed. The gate opens readily leaving a clear gap of 1.500 metres.

A footbridge over one metre wide. The path level and wide throughout.

The path and a glimpse of the River Goyt. Towards the end of the path the distance to the river much less.

A boardwalk / bridge further along the route towards the end where the river narrows.

Looking back down the trail.
